

Wisdom:

An Internet-Linked Unit Study

Is your homeschooling on the right path? Are you headed in the right direction? Is your focus on academics or God's will? There are two ways to live life—wisely or unwise. When we follow the path of wisdom the results are joy, peace, contentment, and confidence in the presence of God. The results of living unwisely are conflict, discouragement, disappointment, disillusionment, and discontentment. This information is more important than any academics subject. Don't homeschool without including this important information! 120 pages. Paperback 22.00, Ebook $15.00

The Heart of Wisdom Teaching Approach

"Robin Sampson has put together a jewel of a package. This approach is written to appeal to many different learning methods, using Charlotte Mason's philosophy of learning, her own Bible-first philosophy, and the biblical Hebraic method of education. Her creative way of melding Charlotte Mason and the four basic learning styles has produced an approach that is truly a conduit to lifelong learning. Robin gently leads us to this place of light, yet strongly encourages delight-directed learning at the same time. When you ignite a spark of interest in your child, you can lay aside the schedule and watch them fly! Children who are learning by choice will retain and enjoy so much more than those who are forced to study topics of no interest to them. There are comprehensive helps on making timeline books and portfolios, all with lots of illustrations and examples. Robin has obviously spent time in prayer and more prayer while she prepared these studies. Her writings are thoughtful, insightful and joyful, and have been a labor of love from her whole family, I'm quite sure! Enjoy the four steps—Excite, Examine, Expand, and Excel! You may never go back to any other way of learning."—Heidi Shaw, The Old Schoolhouse Magazine. This approach, for all grade levels is for all homeschoolers who want to make the Bible the center of their school day. Includes step-by-step instructions and annotated book lists by theme to study history chronologically and science in the order of the days of Creation. Over 500 pages! Creation, Light, Energy

Creation—Does it really matter what you believe about creation? Not only does it matter, it's absolutely vital what we believe! When you are finished reading this book you will not only know what you believe and why you believe it, you'll also be able to defend it!

"This is more than a study of Creation—This is a study of Christianity versus humanism"

Light—This unit study reveals the mysteries of the light which God created for us. You'll begin with God's words, "Let there be light," then embark on a fascinating journey through the centuries, as your children discover the physical properties of light while they come to understand that the character of God can be comprehended by observing what light is and what it does.

Energy—God created for us the ability to further our civilization through industry, travel, food production, and good living standards. In this unit we will discover how central God's creation of energy is to how we live today, as we study sources of energy, types of energy, potential energy, kinetic energy, heat, thermodynamics, conservation and more.
